EDITORIAL BRIEFS.

IT worries the Democrats exceedingly to think they have been unable to find a flaw in Garfield's letter.

IF Judge Black doesn't hurry home soon Hancock's letter of acceptance will not be out before fall.

As usual, the Democrats are running their campaign by brag. It will not elect Hancock, however, nor any other issue.

THE Democrats are blowing about the lukewarmness of Republicans. The fact is, lukewarm Republicans are as scarce as chickens with back teeth.

SUPPOSE Tanner does succeed in living forty days on water, it will not be half so great a fast as the Democratic party's twenty years' feast on wind.

A DEMOCRATIC paper in Mississippi sounds the keynote. It says inaugurate social ostracism against every white man North or South that gives his support to the building up of the Republican party.

THE Philadelphia Times says Gen. Garfield's letter of acceptance is weak, which is pretty good evidence that it means just the opposite. The Times is getting to be about as mysterious as the Springfield Republican.

GENERAL HANCOCK was a brave soldier during the war. So was General Garfield. And he is more—he is to-day one of the foremost statesmen tn the land, and well informed in duties in which Hancock has no experience whatever.

A DEMOCRATIC organ is so ungenerous as to say that Forney's purpose to write a campaign biography of Hancock shows that he intends to make his last political flop pay. Forney is not receiving that consideration from the party that his tremendous efforts deserve.

WHAT nonsense it would be for Hancock to sign his name to a letter giving his views on national questions. Every sensible man knows he is wholly ignorant about such matters, and that when the letter is printed it must be the product of the brain of some one else.

WHILE the Democratic party is on the defensive, its organs might as well tell the people of the country how much money Hancock made out of the United Service Petroleum and Mining Company of New York, of which he was president, and in which so many hundreds of soldiers lost their all.

SOME one truthfully says that behind General Hancock march all the Ku-Klux Klans, Knights of the White Camelia, men who starved our soldiers and the unpunished murderers of Union men and negroes in the South. A fine army indeed for a man to lead who still wears the uniform of his country.

HERE are two facts which anybody who thinks the country would be bettered by a change of parties would do well to consider: In 1860, after twenty years of Democratic rule, the Government found it hard work to realize 89 cents on the dollar for its 6 per cent. bonds. In 1880, after twenty years of Republican rule, the Government 4 per cent. bonds sell readily at $1.08. Comment is unnecessary.

General Garfield's Letter of Acceptance.

General Garfield's letter accepting the nomination to the Presidency, published in the daily papers several days ago, has been received all over the country as an able and comprehensive document. The Democratic press may pooh-pooh at it, but to every fair mind it must be recognized as an emanation from a statesman and a patriot.

He first shows his fearlessness and rectitude by referring his fellow-countrymen to his opinions placed on record during an extended term in Congress, knowing that the most thorough investigation his accusers can make will fail to show anything that is inconsistent, unpatriotic or in any respect unworthy of him as a man and as a Republican Representative. Few men who have ever been in Congress have been nominated for Executive, either of State or Nation, who would not willingly have had some part of their official record obliterated; but General Garfield is not of that class, and at the opening of the campaign gives the Democratic party to understand that he has never done anything during his career at Washington to bring the blush of shame to his cheek or make him dread their inquiries. He then expresses, emphatically, the Republican sentiment that the pernicious doctrine of State sovereignty cannot be tolerated; that the United States is a nation whose constitution and laws must be recognized by one and all as the supreme law of the land, and that every elector must be permitted to cast his lawful ballot and have it honestly counted. No citizen who is loyal and honest can consistently object to such views, and none, probably, do; but there are Democrats in the North as well as in the South who are combatting this sentiment; and the soldier who sought and received from them the nomination at Cincinnati has, by becoming their champion, evinced his belief in State sovereignty and his willingness to profit from the villainy of Southern bulldozers and ballot-box stuffers in whatever State they may prosecute their infamy on election day.

General Garfield's expressions relative to popular education, says the Philadelphia Republic, are those of every patriot who appreciates the importance of fostering the public school system, and who is opposed to mingling State or Church in such manner that the public revenues can be used for the benefit of the schools of any particular denomination. The institutions of learning in the different States which are maintained by general taxation, are open for no particular denomination, but for all, and as the writer says, the setting apart of any portion of the money for the support of sectarian schools would be unjust to our people and dangerous to our institutions.

And his views on the finances and tariff are equally emphatic. He does not think that the present prosperity of the country should be endangered by doubtful financial experiments, and he does believe that a policy should be adopted which will bring revenue and will enable our industries to compete fairly in our own markets with the capital and labor of foreign producers.

Chinese immigration, as it is at present carried on, being actually an importation of servile labor, he antagonizes; and the plank in the Chicago platform in reference to civil service he endorses.

Finally, the illustrious and level-headed Republican nominee expresses his entire faith in and adhesion to the principles enunciated by that convention, and says he believes that they should control the legislation and administration of the Government, and that if he is elected they will guide his conduct until experience points out a better way.

The people of the nation have waited some weeks for a response to the tender made of the nomination, and have lost nothing by the delay. With this manly letter of acceptance, the majority can go through the campaign without apprehensions that the result will be contrary to their expectations, but on the contrary assured that with thorough organization success is certain, and with a surplus of votes.

General Arthur's Letter of Acceptance.

General Arthur has written his letter of acceptance of the Republican nomination for Vice-President. It embodies sound and vigorous Republican doctrines throughout. In speaking of it the New York Tribune says: The most conspicuous topic of the paper is the irrepressible conflict that has waged for years, and will continue, between the Democratic party and the Election laws. Every attempt that has been made to impose proper restrictions upon the act of voting, in order to prevent fraud, has been resisted by the Democratic party, which thrives when dishonest voting is possible, and pines under registration laws and other measures to prevent ballot-box stuffing and repeating. The attempt of the Democratic House to cripple these laws by withholding appropriations was a fitting climax of a long series of efforts to break down the safeguards of the suffrage. The independent voters of the country, who have read Mr. Davenport's testimony before the Wallace Committee, know by what a frightful accumulation of proof this charge against the Democratic party is supported in this locality, to say nothing of many others, and will need no further testimony to sustain the arraignment contained in General Arthur's letter.

The letter makes a statement at some length of his views respecting the administration of the civil service, and recalls the Republican record in the resumption of specie payments. It also reminds the country that the very votes which were created by the enfranchisement of the Southern blacks, being stolen or suppressed except in the census returns, are now counted upon to put the Democracy into power. General Arthur makes a good point when he reviews the repudiation record of the South, which now seeks to control the government. The letter well supplements that of General Garfield, and the two together should command the vote of every patriotic citizen.

THE understanding that General Hancock is so effeminate that he wears corsets is not likely to help him much among the yeomanry of the country, the muscular mechanics, or any other voters in fact who believe that no man can be really manly whose vanity will lead him into adopting such a means of maintaining a good shape. A contemporary says one of Henry VIIIth's courtiers tried to give plumpness to a thin leg by stuffing his tight breeches with bran. He was a man of fine intellect, and this was his only weakness. All went well until by an accident his breeches were ripped one day and his plump leg collapsed, in the presence of the lords and ladies of the court. That fixed him, and the corsets will help to fix Hancock in November.

THERE is a striking similarity between the political situation in the country now and that in Ohio last fall. Both parties in that State were confident of victory. Even so shrewd an observer as General Ewing had no doubt of his election and expressed surprise at the serene confidence of the Republicans. But when the votes were counted, and the Democrats found themselves in a minority of over 17,000, they discovered the difference between confidence based on votes and on wind. Next November they will have a repetition of the same experience.

EX-GOVERNOR FENTON is confident that the Republicans can carry New York this fall, and believes the fact will become evident before the campaign is half over.

Do not be Deceived.

There has been an effort on the part of many Democrats in this county to give out the idea that there were many soldiers who were determined to vote for Hancock. We have met a great many men in the county who have said, "I am a Republican, have always voted the Republican ticket, but I shall have to go for Hancock this time." Upon inquiry, however, we have always found that these men were never Republicans, and were only telling lies in order, if possible, to influence or deceive some whom they hoped to induce to desert the old flag under the idea that the Union general, Hancock, was going to sweep everything before him.

We warn all Republicans not to be deceived by this trickery; it is an old game, and has been begun this time too early to work. We can assure our friends that the rediculous sight of a Confederate Convention, throwing out their Presidential hook baited with a Union general for the purpose of catching Union soldiers, is a failure. So far they have not had even a nibble, to say nothing of a bite. The Republicans of Centre county were never more united than they are at present; they are satisfied with their candidate and the platform, and will give the Democracy the liveliest tussle this fall they have ever had. We give them fair notice that we are going to give them a sharp contest for supremacy in this county, and the times look auspicious for success. Let every good Republican prepare himself to battle in earnest for true principles of government—for protection to our home industries, that our laborers may have work and our farmers thereby find a remunerative home market for the product of their farms; for the national honor and the faithful payment of the Nation's obligations; for honesty in the administration of governmental affairs; for the triumphant election of the soldier-statesman, James A. Garfield, first in war when his country needed his services and first in peace when treason was subdued and war no longer necessary—the man who every patriot delights to honor, because he is a true patriot, a brave soldier, a thorough statesman.

THE headquarters of the Republican State Central Committee will be at the old rooms, corner of Tenth and Chestnut streets, Philadelphia, where Chairman Cessna and Secretary Lucius Rogers, two indefatigable workers, and their assistants, will soon commence operations. A general meeting of the committee will be held on the 29th inst., and after that the body will be of about as much use as a fifth wheel to a coach, the officers always doing the work, of course, with due consultation with the principal candidates. One of the first matters to be attended to will be to arrange for raising ways and means, something that every Republican who can afford it should have no little to say about, especially those who have been for so long benefited by the receipts from offices either given to them by the party in power or by which they have been retained in position. There are always some incumbants in office who are extremely careful what they say and what they do in such a crisis as the present one. They may have been blatant before the nominations were made, and will vote for the Republican nominees, but their voices suddenly become silenced, and unless a broad hint is given their pocket books might as well be empty. Who these cautious men are can easily be ascertained by the committee, and it is unnecessary for us to say that they should be interviewed.

ADVICES received from different counties in the interior concerning the political situation are of the most inspiring character, and in no locality yet heard from is there any evidence that Forney and Pearson, the one Hancock's biographer and the other the round-house refugee, have any following.

Statesmen and Soldiers.

Senator Bayard belongs to a family of statesmen, and is a statesman himself. He has large experience in public life and clear convictions on the paramount questions of the time.

The Democratic party has thrust Bayard aside and nominated General Hancock, a mere soldier.

Senator Thurman, while he has sometimes trifled with his convictions, is still a statesman in thought and method, an able man, of a judicial mind, familiar with affairs, and a leader of the legislative body to which he belongs.

The Democratic party has pushed Thurman down and nominated General Hancock, a mere soldier.

Judge Field, albeit he has betrayed too great anxiety concerning other than judicial office, is a student of large political questions and accustomed to their thorough treatment.

The Democratic party has rejected Field and nominated General Hancock, a mere soldier.

Representative Morrison is an eminent member of Congress, whose legislative career compares favorably with that of any man in his party.

The Democratic party has turned the cold shoulder to Morrison and nominated General Hancock, a mere soldier.

Even Mr. Hendricks, while he has the reputation of the most expert fence viewer in the country, has filled the office of Governor of his State and the office of Senator of the United States with such success that he is one of the strongest men in Indiana.

The Democratic party has treated Hendricks with contempt and nominated General Hancock, a mere soldier.

Payne of Ohio, McDonald of Indiana, Parker of New Jersey, Randall of Pennsylvania, Ewing of Ohio and English of Connecticut, have made their mark in political life.

The Democratic party would have none of these and has nominated General Hancock, a mere soldier.

It is an old saying that success in the field and the camp is not a guaranty of success in civil administration, but rather the reverse. The Democratic party has repeated this saying with vigor and persistence for years. The sincerity of its protest may be tested by the fact that it has turned its back upon all its statesmen and has nominated for the first civil office in the country a mere soldier.—New York Post.

CENSUS reports from different cities and towns in the States that were loyal during the rebellion are given almost daily in the public journals, but thus far we hear of no figures being given out about the population of any locality in the Southern States. A few weeks before the time for taking the census arrived we expressed our belief that frauds would be perpetrated in the land of the brigadiers, and that the official returns would be doctored in order that the representation in Congress might not be lessened, and the reticence to which we now call attention certainly looks ominous.—Sunday Republic.

Chastine Cox Executed.

NEW YORK, July 16.—Chastine Cox, the murderer of Mrs. Hull, was hanged at 8:37 this morning. He died in sixteen minutes.

The negro passed a quiet night, retiring between eleven and twelve o'clock and falling into deep slumber before two o'clock. A few minutes past five o'clock he awakened and quickly arose. He did not exhibit fear in the slightest degree. He spoke to no one, being apparently engaged in mental prayer. At 5:30 he called for the minister, and Rev. Cook came in. Cox shook hands with him cordially. After religious exercises the culprit ate a hearty breakfast, after which prayer was resumed and continued until the arrival of the sheriff and his deputies.

At eight o'clock Cox, wearing the black cap with the noose dangling from his neck and arms pinioned, was taken from the cell to the gallows. He walked with a firm step and as the procession neared the gallows he looked at it with seeming coolness. Taking his station beneath the crosspiece and standing on the Belgian pavement, dropped his eyes and moved his lips in prayer, while the noose dangling from his neck was hooked to the pendant rope and the black cap drawn over his face. There was only an instant of suspense, when at 8:37, at a signal from the sheriff, the executioner, hidden behind a board screen, cut with an axe the cord holding the weight. Cox's body was jerked four feet into the air, and on settling down displayed contortions indicative of strangulation. A minute later he was still, and in sixteen he was pronounced dead.

Poetry.

Perplexity.

Oh, what shall I do for a bonnet?
I've nothing to wear,
And the styles are so queer—
It's not want of variety
That causes anxiety;
'Tis distracting to choose
'Mong the shapes and the hues
Of braids, straws and chips,
Red, brown and sage dips,
Bleached, unbleached and black—
Of styles there's no lack,
The question's so vexed
I declare I'm perplexed
With fruitless thinking upon it.

Oh, what shall I do for a bonnet?
The spring's almost gone,
And June's coming on,
And a friend writes to me
My new bonnet to see.
What can a blonde do
If she may not wear blue?
Only yellow and red
Are now worn on the head:
But my cheeks would look sallow
If set off by yellow,
And my hair would look ashen
If dressed in such fashion,
It would not be right
To become such a fright,
My old broad-brimmed hat
Would be better than that,
And I've half made my mind up to don it.

Oh, what shall I do for a bonnet?
I've searched several hours
For suitable flowers.
Would hollyhocks do?
They are certainly new.
There are exquisite copies
Of sunflowers and poppies.
How would dandelions suit?
Or suppose I have fruit—
Ripe cherries and hops
Are shown in the shops;
I might wear a few bunches upon it.

Oh, what shall I do for a bonnet?
Shall tinsel chains dangle,
Or beaded fringe tangle?
Shall gold-dust besprinkle,
Or black bugles tinkle,
With gilt balls on top,
Like a pawnbroker's shop?
Or perhaps I should take
A gilt spade and rake,
To show that my taste
Is simple and chaste,
As a poet's should be who writes sonnets.

Oh, what shall I do for a bonnet?
Shall green lizards crawl—
Or blue flies—over all?
Shall butterflies hover
To mark Nature's lover?
Shall dragons surprise
With fiery glass eyes?
Shall brown beetles creep,
Or grasshoppers leap?
Oh, what shall adorn my new bonnet?

Our Story Teller.

THE BRASS BUTTON.

On a fine evening in the summer of 1766 two young women, Maggie Armstrong and Eliza Wilson, met at a roadside not far from the village of Distington, about four miles from the town of White Haven. Both were known as good, religious girls.

'The celebrated Mr. Wesley is in Whitten—Whitehaven—Maggie,' remarked Eliza in an off hand sort of way, 'and is to speak in the market place to-morrow night. Will you go with me to hear him?'

'I will accompany you to Whitten, Eliza,' promptly replied Maggie. 'I've often wished to see the famed man, so all being well, I'll get ready and go with you.'

'Will you ask Richard to come, Maggie?' put in Eliza, with characteristic zeal as they both lifted the pails on their heads.

'I judge that he will follow when he finds that I am going,' quietly responded Maggie.

It need scarcely be observed that the young man referred to was one who had for some time past paid certain attentions to Maggie, or that Eliza Wilson was an ardent Methodist.

Saturday night came, and among the many who were gathered around the enthusiastic little preacher were the two young women we have brought before the reader. They came with sentiments as divergent as possible in respect to the preacher and his preaching. They returned one in mind and heart. The result of this change in Maggie was that she was cold to Richard Brunskill on the way home, and unsympathetic; from that hour he was no more to her than any other youth. The first time he went to her home after that night he was told his fate in a mild but firm manner—a decision which he received with anything but complacent feelings.

But summer had not long given place to winter before a change took place. A young man named Thomas Musgrove, who had recently begun to use his gifts as an occasional preacher among the Wesleyans, arrested Maggie's attention. He was a builder in a fair way of business on his own account; and as Miss Armstrong had considerable personal charms, her secret preferences for him were soon drawn out by his avowed attachment to her; and before long it was well known by all the brotherhood and others that their two young folks were likely ere long to become man and wife.

Matters were in this condition when midsummer came around. It was again the 'leafy month of June,' when once more the famed apostle of Methodism paid his annual visit to Whitehaven, and every Methodist in Distington was overjoyed at the prospect of hearing his welcome voice on the following Saturday night in the market place. Among those who walked from Distington to hear him were Thomas Musgrove and Margaret Armstrong. A small dog belonging to the former accompanied them. The service did not last much over an hour, as Mr. Wesley wished to meet the country officials that he might aid them by his counsels. As Musgrove was one whose presence was required at this gathering, and as it was not certain how long he would be detained thereat, he desired Maggie to go home with the others, observing that he would not fail to give her a call on his return and spend an hour or so with her. The dog Viper went with him.

The party returned to Distington, and after Maggie reached her home she waited in vain for the appearance of her lover, who had promised to be with her in a short time. Full of forebodings she retired to rest, and several hours later was awakened by the barking of a dog under her window. Rising, and approaching the casement, she perceived Mr. Musgrove's dog acting in a most unaccountable manner, evidently trying to arouse she inmates of the house.

Excited and perplexed she awoke her father and told him the circumstances. At daybreak Armstrong aroused a neighbor, and telling him what he knew and feared, the pair set off on the road to Whitehaven, preceded by Viper. They had not gone above a mile when the dog, leaving the high road, made for an unused stone quarry a little off the highway, and standing on an eminence which flanked the quarry, set up a loud and dismal howl.

They now looked around and saw the object of their search stiff, cold and covered with blood, his clothes nearly torn from his body lying near by. It was evident that poor young Musgrove had been murdered. He had been attacked from behind by some one who had used a a heavy blunt implement, by a blow from which he had been knocked down, and then dragged into the quarry and dispatched, the poor dog having doubtless been a helpless witness to the tragedy.

The murder produced a deep and widespread sensation. Many persons were suspected of having committed the deed, among whom was Richard Brunskill. But as the murdered man had not been seen in his company on that fatal Saturday night—as indeed Brunskill proved that he had left the town alone—and others testified that Musgrove did not leave the town until long afterwards, Richard was allowed to remain at large; and the crime was laid at the door of some person or persons unknown, and left to take rank with undiscovered crimes.

It will be remembered that when the dog Viper entered Armstrong's house on the night of the murder he had a piece of blue cloth with a brass button attached in his mouth, and which he laid in Maggie's hand. The girl put it in her purse, more with a view of knowing where to find it if wanted than for any other reason.

Twelve months had passed, when business drew her and her father to Whitehaven. As usual it was on Saturday night, the pay-time of colliers and others. As they were crossing a little bridge whom should they confront, as they reached the other side, but Richard Brunskill, who was about to step on the planks. The eyes of Miss Armstrong and his met in one stern and earnest gaze; but while they were hesitating as to what course each should take, their attention was arrested by something that was going on at their feet. Viper was growling with all his might, his eyes ready to leap from heir sockets, and the hair on his back standing up like the teeth of a comb, pulling at Brunskill's trouser leg, evidently for the purpose of arresting his progress. In a moment Maggie's misty suspicions were confirmed, that the slayer of her intended husband stood before her. She remembered the piece of cloth in her pocket. Looking at his coat she saw that it was blue in color; and the buttons in front, made of brass, were the same in size and pattern as the one on the piece in her pocket. Stepping behind him, and looking at the waist of his coat, she saw that a piece of cloth had been torn out and another piece awkwardly inserted in its place and bearing a button not like the others. Not a shade of doubt now lingered in her mind; the proof which she had in her purse, with the action of the dog, convinced her that she was right. So, seizing him by the collar of his coat, and looking him steadily in the face, she exclaimed in a loud voice, 'Richard Brunskill, you are the murderer of Thomas Musgrove! See, the dog accuses you; and this piece of cloth too rises up as a witness against you!' Saying which she took the rag from its hiding place and held it up to his gaze.

Brunskill shook like an aspen leaf. His face became pale, and falling backwards into the arms of one of the many who had by this time gathered, he said, 'God won't let me escape! I am guilty of the death of Thomas Musgrove! I am willing to die!'

A constable, attracted by what was going on in the neighborhood, drew near just as the wretched man had uttered these words, and took him into custody.

Brunskill made a full confession of his crime before his execution. He said that when he got to know that Musgrave had gained the place that he once believed he had in Margaret Armstrong's affections, and seeing no chance to supplant him, a deep-rooted hatred was begotten within him; but he never felt tempted to take his life until the night of the murder, and then resolved that the deed should be effected in the old quarry. On reaching it he hid behind the stone stoop of the gateway that led thereto, and in a short time he heard the footfall of his unsuspecting victim. Taking a deep drink of rum and grasping the hedge stake with which he had armed himself, as soon as the young fellow had reached the spot where he was hid, he sprang up and killed him by a blow on the back of his head, after which he dragged him into the quarry. The dog, he said, was almost wild with rage, but he was not aware until afterwards that a piece of his coat had been torn away by the animal, nor did he ever suspect that it had ever been found and treasured up to be used as a witness against him.

American Locomotives.

From facts and figures brought together by Mr. Chanute, vice-president of the American Society of Civil Engineers, and taken from the advance sheets of his annual address, it appears that American locomotives—which were already known to have at least as good speed as any in the world—can also pull greater trains and travel more miles in a year than any others. Early locomotives were not expected to have a dragging power greater than one-fourteenth of the weight upon their driving wheels. Now, in other countries, one-seventh of the weight is considered a standard and satisfactory performance, while American locomotives regularly work up to one-fifth in winter and do rather better in summer. That is to say, a European locomotive weighing 88,000 pounds might be expected to pull a train equal in resistance to lifting 12,571 pounds, while an American locomotive would pull 19,555 pounds, or 55 per cent. more. The average locomotive of Europe travels 15,720 miles per year, while the American performance is 21,900 miles. The reason assigned is simply that the American machines are better ones, and two chief improvements on the European prototype are mentioned. First, the leading wheels of locomotives and all car-wheels are not rigidly attached to the frames, but are fixed to trucks pivoted at the centre, and, secondly, equalizing levers are used to distribute the weight equally over the driving wheels, thus keeping its apportionment nearly constant, while the wheels are free to adapt themselves to all the irregularities of the track. These and other improvements have reduced the resistance of cars so much that recent experiments have developed a rolling friction of only 4 or 5 pounds per ton, or, actually, only half that given in engineering note-books. Our railroads have cost less than half as much per mile as the European, and competition has also greatly reduced the profits on the total capital invested. Thus, in 1878 our roads earned 3.93 per cent., the English 4.4 per cent., and the French and Germans each 5.1, which is the greatest percentage of profit. Between 1868 and 1877 the rates of toll have been reduced in this State 56 per cent., and in Massachusetts 45 per cent., while in Germany they were only reduced 22½ per cent. The lowest charge per ton per mile on English traffic is ⅛ of a cent on minerals, as against a regular rate between New York and Chicago of ⅛ of a cent on grain, etc., and, at times, only 1-5 of a cent has been charged. The 23 miles in operation in 1830 have risen to over 86,000 in 1879, the greatest annual increase having been 7,369 miles in 1871. Thus, our 50,000,000 of inhabitants have provided themselves with 41 per cent. of the total railroad mileage of the world, the 306,000,000 of Europe having 98,000 miles, or 47 per cent. Most persons will agree with Mr. Chanute that we, as Americans, have no reason to be dissatisfied with the comparison.

Mrs. Tom Thumb.

A lady correspondent of the Washington Sunday Herald gives the following description of Mrs. Tom Thumb at Manhattan Beach:

I intended to make a special study of all that was new in bathing dresses, but my attention was soon drawn from the general subject to a small but interesting object, nothing else but Mrs. Tom Thumb in the surf. She and her husband are in one of the numerous West Brighton side shows, but this afternoon she slipped over to the less miscellaneous bathing pavilion at Manhattan Beach to disport herself in the water. I first saw her as she ran down the bridge leading from the dressing rooms, and took her to be a little girl, but her womanish shape drew my eyes to a closer inspection, and when she turned her face I recognized her.

Mrs. Thumb is now about forty years of age, and is a perfect matron in miniature. Her face, though still pretty, shows her age, and has a quaint, motherly expression. She is a realization in a small way of fair, fat and forty.

She wore a suit of blue gray flannel, which was quite jaunty and coquettish before it got wet. It was not too close about the throat to hide her round white neck, nor too loose over her bust to reveal its plumpness. A belt brought the garment in to a proportionately robust waist. Her arms were bare to the tops of her shoulders, in each of which was a pretty little dimple. There was a shapely taper down to her wrists. Her legs were bare to the calves, and her small feet were also uncovered. It was evident that this was her first appearance in that suit, for her exposed skin was as white as a baby's, bearing no tan. Her face was protected by a wide brimmed hat, but the sunlight fell upon her arms and legs in a way to threaten speedy blistering. She had a comical dignified air and stepped into the surf with the air of a knee-high queen. She waded boldly until she met the first wave, which soused her, flopped her down, rolled her over and over, and finally threw her upon the sand.

All style had been instantaneously drenched out of her clothes, but the bare limbs were as shapely as ever, and take her altogether she looked better after the ordeal than did most of the bigger women.

Married by Chance.

The Count de M—— lived in a state of single and independent blessedness. He was yet young, very rich, and was surrounded by everything which could give enjoyment to life except a wife. He had frequently thought of becoming a husband, but had always declared off before the knot was tied. Once, however, he found himself very nearly committing the folly of matrimony. A young person, the daughter of one of his friends, pleased him—her fortune pleased him, not less, perhaps, than her person and accomplishments, and there were other reasons of convenience, etc., to justify the union. The Count, who had so frequently made the first step toward matrimony, but as frequently drew back, had not yet decided upon the course he should adopt in this case; he had promised the friends of the lady repeatedly, but had made no outward sign of performance. His future mother, however, knowing his weakness in this respect, resolved to bring matters to a termination, and therefore demanded of the Count whether he would or would not marry her daughter, and requested an immediate reply. The Count found himself in great embarrassment. At this moment his fears and hesitation returned with more force than ever—he trembled at the consequences. To give up his cherished habits of bachelorhood he found was hard—it was almost impossible to abandon them. In this emergency he resolved to appeal to cuance. He wrote two letters—in the one he accepted the hand of the lady, in the other refused it. He then put them into a hat and called a servant.

'Take one of these letters,' said he, 'and carry it to the chateau of——'

'Which letter, sir?'

'Which you please.'

The servant chose a letter. The Count burned the other without opening it. A distance of ten leagues separated the two chateaux. The domestic must be absent twenty-four hours; twenty-four hours must elapse before the Count can know his fate. His situation is anything but agreeable—he knows not, during twenty-four hours, whether he is a married man or a single one; whether he has still the power to dispose of himself, or whether he is not already disposed of. The domestic returned—he had carried the letter the letter of acceptation, and M. de M—— is, even at this time, the happiest husband in that part of the country.

The Champion Mail Carrier.

Every day, as regular as the hour comes around, any person who may take the trouble can see John W. Leedy, the veteran mail carrier of the world, arrive in Harrisonburg on his return from Port Republic, in this county, with the mail. To look at him one would not suppose that he was capable of any great endurance, but when you look at his record you will find that he has gone through with what would kill most men. He has been carrying the United States mail for the past twenty-five years, and during that time he has ridden the enormous aggregate of 328,583 miles, or an average of about forty miles a day for six days of each week during the whole period. If he had riduen in a straight line he would have gone around the world about thirteen times. He was born in Johnstown, Jefferson county, Virginia, and was raised there, and came to Rockingham during the John Brown raids prior to the war, and has been here ever since. He is only 47 years of age, and bids fair to put in another twenty-five years of service. If he had been paid for every mile he had ridden the price usually charged for passengers on the railroad, four cents per mile, he would have made the handsome sum in round numbers of $13,000. Congress should give him a pension and put him on the retired list.—Virginia Paper.

State Notes.

Shenanpoah has not a colored person within its limits, and Honesdale has but one colored voter.

The Dillsburg Bulletin says that gold ore has been discovered in Littlestown, Adams county, which will yield $300 to the ton.

Arthur Moore, who was injured in consequence of a bad sidewalk, has sued the Altoona authorities for $10,000 damages.

The residence of Thomas B. Cochran in Lancaster was entered by thieves on Saturday and robbrd of about $500 worth of Jewelry.

The contract to build the iron bridge over the Monongahela River at Pittsburg, which will cost $250,000, has been awarded to the Iron City Bridge Works.

Gold-bearing quartz is said to have been discovered on the farm of Dr. Frantz at the base of South Mountain, near Wayesboro, Franklin county.

A singular family of six old maids and two bachelors, the oldest 60 years of age, who were all born in the house in which they live, and can neither read nor write, live on the premises of Colonel L. Heber Smith, in Robeson Township, Berks county.

—When is the work of overhauling the Presbyterian church going to be commenced? Some of our citizens are of the opinion that if something isn't done to the tower there will be another fall of rock before long.

—The Beaver Argus came to our desk this week printed bottom side up. Probably the editors have not yet recovered from their 4th of July spree.

—We saw a lady lift her child over the depot crossing by the arm yesterday. We are not alone in the belief that such handling is injurious to children.

—The passenger and second-class freight agency at Howard, B. E. V. railroad, has been changed to passenger and first-class freight agency. Mr. Jacob Cook is continued as agent.

—We have received a copy of the Fonetic Advocate, a new semi-monthly publication just started at Easton. It advocates the adoption of the new style of spelling, and is well edited.

—Another season of moonlight evenings is upon us, and the young folks are planning excursions, lawn parties, etc., in order that the bright nights may be pleasantly and enjoyably spent.

—The rules for leap year picnics are very simple. The girls bring the lunch, including lemons and sugar, and the boys furnish the water and make the lemonade. The girls also put up the swings.

—A great many citizens in town who have been taking the Philadelphia Times are dropping it and subscribing for the Press. They say the Times is getting too "independent," or, in other words, slinging too much Democratic mud.

—A Lebanon man gave a boy a terrible cowhiding a few days since for attempting to set fire to his barn. The boy succeeded in getting up a conflagration, at any rate, but it was much nearer home than he imagined it was going to be.

—Mr. Spencer S. Ogden, who left this place for Georgia last spring, where he had been tendered a position in a lumbering establishment, has been compelled to return North on account of ill health, the climate not agreeing with him. He is now in Trenton, N. J.

—Here is the kind of a send-off a western paper gives the Yankton (D. T.) brass band: "An alleged brass band, which might be likened to a consolidated saw mill and boiler foundry, has been agitating Yankton with discordant strains in the interest of the opera house."

—One or two of the showmen belonging to Coup's show, got into a difficulty with the landlord of the Bush House on Wednesday which created considerable excitement for a while. As both men seemed to be a little to blame nothing serious grew out of the unpleasantness.

—Mr. F. C. Richards, the watchmaker, exhibited to us the other evening one of the newly-patented self-winding watches, of which but very few have yet been manufactured. The watch is wound up by the motion of the body in walking, and is a wonderful piece of mechanism.

—We saw the biggest and ugliest snake on Wednesday that we've seen this season so far, and a species seldom seen on our mountains. It was a boa constrictor, seven feet long and as thick as a stove funnel. Lest our readers might be deceived we will state that we saw this monster in the side show of Coup's circus.

—Possibly there is no humbuggery about Tanner, but at the same time we would not trust him fifteen minutes inside a well-stocked pantry without pay in advance. Tanner ain't the man to squirt rain water down his throat for food with half-a-dozen plump huckleberry pies staring him in the face, even if he is a fool.

—It begins to look as though something was about to be done with the car shops. Workmen are engaged cleaning out the buildings and putting things in shape, and it is reported once more that the works have been sold and five days' time given for putting them in repair. We hope this will not turn out to be another unfounded rumor.

—Here is something for those who use oleomargarine to think over: A chemist in Maine who has analyzed oleomargarine says that he regards it as a dangerous article to use for food, and that he has found various fungi and eggs resembling those of tape worms. The tape worm eggs, he thinks, come from using the stomachs of sheep and pigs in the manufacture.

English Again.

It is again reported that English, the notorious forger and murderer, has at last been secured. Detective Thomas, of Pinkerton's agency, if report be true, captured him at Cheboygan, Mich., and at his own request a requisition has been issued for his return to Elk county.

A LECTURE

To Young Men.

Just Published, in a Sealed Envelope. Price six cents.

A LECTURE ON THE NATURE, TREATMENT, and Radical Cure of Seminal Weakness, or Spermatorrhœa, induced by Self-Abuse, Involuntary Emissions, Impotency, Nervous Debility, and Impediments to Marriage generally; Consumption, Epilepsy, and Fits; Mental and Physical Incapacity, &c.—By ROBERT J. CULVERWELL, M. D., author "Green Book," &c.

This world renowned author, in this admirable Lecture, clearly proves from his own experience that the awful consequences of Self-Abuse may be effectually removed without medicine, and without dangerous surgical operations, bougies, instruments, rings, or cordials; pointing out a mode of cure at once certain and effectual, by which every sufferer, no matter what his condition may be, may cure himself cheaply, privately and radically.

☞ This Lecture will prove a boon to thousands and thousands.

Sent under seal in a plain envelope, to any address, post-paid, on receipt of six cents or two postage stamps.

NEW ENTERPRISE.

ALEXANDER & CO.,

Agricultural Implement

AND

SEED STORE,

BELLEFONTE, PA.

They mean by this all the name imports, that is, to deal in and to furnish to farmers at the lowest possible price everything in the shape of an agricultural implement that farmers use, including SEEDS of all kinds.

At present we have on hand and are the authorized agents for the sale of the OLIVER CHILLED PLOW, made at South Bend, Ind. It is the best chilled plow now made; also the Keystone and iron beam plows, made at Centre Hall. No better plows than these can be had for the same amount of money. Also the Centre Hall Coruplanter. We need say nothing about the merits of this planter, as the 2000 now in use in Centre county demonstrates them to be the best.

HARROWS and CULTIVATORS of the latest improved patterns.

MOWERS, REAPERS and GRAIN BINDERS.—Of these we sell the Osborne, either as separate mowers, combined reapers and mowers, single harvesters, or as combined reapers and binders.

THE WHEELER, No. 6, as a combined machine, is the best machine of the kind in the market.

The greatest improvement of the age is the NORRISTOWN GLEANER AND BINDER. Call and see it. It is wonderfully perfect.

Any boy twelve years old, with one horse, will follow and bind all the grain that any reaper with side delivery will cut. It not only binds but gleans, and will save the price of the machine in one year by taking up from the stubble that which is now lost.

The McSHERRY GRAIN DRILL either with or without broadcast hoes, with or without fertilizer and seed sowing attachments. It is the best grain drill for all purposes in the market.

The GEISER THRESHER AND SEPARATOR.—The reputation of this machine is so well established that we can say nothing about it that the people do not know. Any person wanting one, or in need of repairs for those now in the county, please call.

HEEBNER'S PATENT LEVEL TREAD HORSE POWER, for one and two horses, with Patent Speed Regulator. Little Giant Thresher and Cleaner.

Wagons, Carriages, Buggies and Phaetons.—We are agents for the sale of the celebrated CONKLIN WAGON, the reputation of which is so well established; also of the CORTLAND PLATFORM SPRING WAGONS, Carriages, Phaetons and Buggies. All are warranted. Call and see specimens and examine catalogues as to styles and prices before buying elsewhere. Catalogues furnished on application.

PLASTER and FERTILIZERS.—Cayuga Plaster, finely ground, as good as the best Nova Scotia, at the low price of $7.00 per ton. Peruvian Guano sold on orders only. Phosphates always on hand. Special manures for different crops sold upon orders at manufacturers' prices.

POWDER.—We are Dupont's agents. Blasting, Sporting and Rifle Powder on hand and sold at wholesale prices; also fuse.

GRAIN.—After the growing crop is harvested we will be prepared to pay the highest market price for all kinds of grain.

COAL.—Our yard is always stocked with the best Anthracite Coal which we sell at lowest price.

LIME.—We make the best white lime in the State. Its properties for mechanical and agricultural purposes excel all others.

FAIRBANKS' SCALES.—We are their agents for Centre county and will supply all parties wishing good and true scales at their lowest prices.

We extend an invitation to everybody in want of anything in our line to call at our store rooms, opposite the Bush House, and see what we have, and learn from those in attendance more particularly the scope of our business. ALEXANDER & CO.

DR. HALL'S

ELECTRIC BELTS.

For the cure of all nervous diseases without the least derangement of the patient's habits or daily occupation. This appliance exerts powerful and beneficial influence throughout the whole frame: is applicable to either sex, and affords instantaneous relief in the following diseases:

Rheumatism,
Neuralgia,
Dyspepsia,
Lumbago,
General Debility,
Headaches,
Dizziness,
Impotency,
Spermatorrhœa,
Sexual Exhaustion,
Self Abuse,
Premature Decay, &c.

These belts are the result of the profound research and experiment in Electro-Therapeutics, and by their peculiar construction, a continuous "galvanic current" is generated, which permeates the whole frame, and especially envelops the suffering parts with its gentle influence. This current assimilates closer to the nervous fluid than anything known to medical science—hence its potency as a curative agent.

Most especially is the application of electricity in this form beneficial to those disorders arising from youthful indiscretion, sexual excess, or dissipations of any kind, whereby the procreative powers are lessened and Impotency threatened. No false delicacy or sense of shame should prevent the sufferer, subject to restless nights, nightmare, dreams, palpitation of the heart, neuralgia, dimness of sight and other symptoms of nervous and physical debility, applying to the undersigned for relief.

These belts are light, perfectly flexible, and easily adjusted, all of which, together with their cheapness, renders them superior to any other form for the application of electricity, medicinally.

☞ 50,147 of these belts were sold in Europe in the year 1876.

"Electricity is Life,"

And no remedy can be compared to it for the treatment of IMPOTENCE and loss of nervous vitality.

This belt is recommended by the most eminent physiologists of this country and Europe.

"Ingenious, wonderful—a deathblow to the old system of drugging."—London (Eng.) Lancet.

"You have perfected a great blessing on suffering humanity."—Dr. Richardson, London, England.

"Wonderful for the restoration of exhausted vitality."—Dr. Ferrier, London, England.

"I cheerfully recommend Dr. Hall's Electric Belt, and consider it one of the greatest blessings to mankind that has been put before the public."—Dr d'Barr, Paris, France.

THE BEST REMEDY

FOR

Diseases of the Throat and Lungs.

Diseases of the pulmonary organs are so prevalent and fatal, that a safe and reliable remedy for them is invaluable to every community. AYER'S CHERRY PECTORAL is such a remedy, and no other so eminently merits the confidence of the public. It is a scientific combination of the medicinal principles and curative virtues of the finest drugs, chemically united, to insure the greatest possible efficiency and uniformity of results, which enables physicians as well as invalids to use it with confidence. It is the most reliable remedy for diseases of the throat and lungs that science has produced. It strikes at the foundation of all pulmonary diseases, affording prompt and certain relief, and is adapted to patients of any age or either sex. Being very palatable, the youngest children take it without difficulty. In the treatment of ordinary Coughs, Colds, Sore Throat, Bronchitis, Influenza, Clergyman's Sore Throat, Asthma, Croup, and Catarrh, the effects of AYER'S CHERRY PECTORAL are magical, and multitudes are annually preserved from serious illness by its timely and faithful use. It should be kept at hand in every household, for the protection it affords in sudden attacks. In Whooping-cough and Consumption there is no other remedy so efficacious, soothing, and helpful.

The marvellous cures which AYER'S CHERRY PECTORAL has effected all over the world are a sufficient guaranty that it will continue to produce the best results. An impartial trial will convince the most sceptical of its wonderful curative powers, as well as of its superiority over all other preparations for pulmonary complaints.

Eminent physicians in all parts of the country, knowing its composition, recommend AYER'S CHERRY PECTORAL to invalids, and prescribe it in their practice. The test of half a century has proved its absolute certainty to cure all pulmonary complaints not already beyond the reach of human aid.

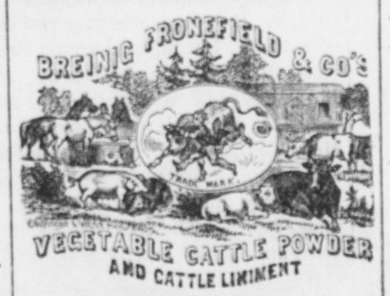
ANY DRUGGIST WILL TELL YOU ITS REPUTATION.



Is a sure cure for all the ordinary diseases of Horses, Cattle, Sheep and Swine. It cures and prevents Chicken Cholera. Your cow is certain to yield 25 per cent more and better milk and butter. Stock fattens on one-fourth less feed!

Being in possession of a large number of excellent testimonials, I subjoin a few:

I have been using your Cattle Powder for horses, cows, chickens and pigs, and find it a first class thing.—GEORGE BOND, Germantown, Pa.

Please send me half a gross of Cattle Powder. I have used two packs on my cow and chickens. The cow gave nearly twice the quantity of milk that she did before, and gave twice the amount of butter. My chickens were dying, but were cured immediately after I had used the powder. Yours truly, JONAS PASOUR, Dallas, N. C.

I have used and compared your Cattle Powder with all others, and must say it is the best for horses, cattle, sheep, hogs, &c. I have tried it on poultry for many complaints, with success in every case.—JONATHAN WEAVER, Berrysburg, Pa.

Last summer you sent me a pack of your powder which I gave to my poultry, and have not had one droopy turkey or chicken since.—MRS. WM. KNAPP, Orange, N. Y.

Send me a pack or two of your Cattle Powder. The pack I got from you last winter cured the chicken cholera. I gave some of it to a neighbor and it cured his chickens.—JOHN WILLIAMS, Spruce Vale, Ohio.

Millheim Doings.

And now the Democracy of Millheim are after "Boohammer" with a sharp stick for "blowin' on 'em;" but they haven't found him out yet.

It seems strange that some of our prominent citizens had so much business in Bellefonte on Wednesday last, just as though there was no other day. And they didn't go up to see Coup's circus, either, (when you heard them talk).

Death ended the sufferings of a valuable horse belonging to John D. Foote, on Saturday evening last.

Burgess Smith is having his residence frescoed. "Dutch Bill" is the very fellow to do them little tricks.

They say there was a very interesting pugilistic performance at the lower end of Penn street between a father and son, on Saturday evening last. Shame on you.

Millheim was visited on Saturday and Monday by a wonderful clock, made by W. F. Troutman, of Schuylkill county, this State. The clock drew large audiences, and seemed to give general satisfaction.

Mr. Charles Weiser and wife, of Bourbank, Ohio, are visiting their numerous friends in this place. They are looking fine. BOOHAMMER.

Port Matilda.

Messrs. John and Samuel Thompson, of Aderson, Madison county, Indiana, are rusticating in our village. These gentlemen, the one a farmer and the other a lawyer, lived in this vicinity in their childhood. While they were boys their father moved to Indiana, fifty-one years ago, being in 1829. Since that time they have not been here, and they returned to gaze at the home of their childhood once more. They find wondrous changes since fifty years ago. Of their old acquaintances they find Mr. Daniel Frantz, Mr. J. G. Jones and Mr. Jacob Cowher. What was then a howling wilderness is now a thriving village, and they say, "Father would have done as well by staying in the old Keystone State."

John Jarret, who is living with Mr. Joseph Thompson, above this place, while hitching four horses to a wagon on Friday was kicked by one of them on the side of the face, cutting his ear nearly off and breaking his jaw bone. He lay unconscious for some hours. Dr. Fugate administered such aid to the unfortunate man as best he could. After his ear was sewed on he became conscious. There is hope of his recovery.

The harvest is about gathered. It had been retarded on account of bad weather. NIB.

Colonel James Young, on his farms near Middletown, cut three hundred acres of wheat, pronounced the finest harvested this season. He hauled in, stacked and put in barns between five and six hundred tons of hay, weighing from a ton and a half to two tons per load.

SUMMARY OF THE NEWS.

HONESDALE, Pa., July 17.—The cashier of the Merchants' Bank, Henry W. Shouse, of Easton, was murdered in this place last evening. In company with James W. Wilson, the attorney of the late Judge John Shouse's estate, he came to Honesdale this morning, and after transacting considerable business during the day, he called after supper on Justice James B. Eldred, at his office. While seated in an arm chair in the middle of the office, at about 8¾, with Mr. Wilson seated on one side of the office table and the Justice on the other, all engaged in a friendly conversation, Benjamin K. Bortree, of Ledgedale, this county, a brother-in-law of Mr. Shouse, walked in at the open door. Without speaking he stepped up to Mr. Shouse, and placing the muzzle of a revolver to his temple, fired two shots in rapid succession. Mr. Shouse fell over in his chair without muttering a word. Justice Eldred jumped up, and seizing the pistol, said, "What in the world are you doing?" Bortree turned to the Justice, wrenched the pistol from his hand, and placing it to his breast swore that if he did not leave the office instantly he would shoot him also. Mr. Eldred retreated out of the door, while Mr. Wilson made good his escape out of the back door. Bortree then returned to his prostrate victim and discharged another barrel of his revolver at his head. Justice Eldred again rushed into his office, and confronting Bortree, demanded the pistol, which the murderer then surrendered, saying that Eldred had always been a good friend of his and he would not harm him. He then surrendered himself to the Justice, and was taken to jail. On the way he said he knew the consequences of his act, and supposed he would have to die for it; that the Shouses had robbed him, and that he did not regret the deed. The revolver used was of large caliber, and was bought in a hardware store here to-day. Mr. Shouse never spoke after being shot. A doctor was immediately summoned, but the wounded man was dying when he arrived, and only breathed a few minutes. The tragedy was witnessed by two or three persons, who happened to be in front of the office at the time. The murdered man was a younger brother of the late Hon. John Shouse.

MILFROD, July 19.—In the case of Henry W. Shouse, of Easton, Pa., who was shot and killed on Friday night at Honesdale by his brother-in-law, Benjamin J. Bortree, of Ledgedale, Pa., the coroner's jury returned a verdict last night charging Bartree with murder in the first degree. Bortree says he is sorry he did not also kill Mr. Wilson, a lawyer of Honesdale, as both he and Shouse robbed him. Bortree's plea will be temporary insanity. He is in jail under guard. There is great excitement and talk of lynching.

MEMPHIS, July 15. — About two months ago Rufus Armstead was assassinated near Horn Lake, Miss., by Edward Nelms, colored, because Armstead's brother, when deputy sheriff of De Soto county, Miss., a year ago, killed Nelms' brother, who resisted arrest, having been charged with horse stealing. The assassination caused much indignation. Nelms, the murderer, was pursued to Tunica county bottoms, and was with his brother, Prentiss Nelms and Tom Konkey, as accomplices, and was arrested. Ed. Nelms, the murderer, was taken to jail at Hernando, and Prentiss Nelms and Tom Konkey were lodged in the Tunica county jail. On Saturday morning last, while the two latter prisoners were being taken to Hernando, a body of masked men stopped the officers having the prisoners in charge. They took possession of the two men, and the officers returned to Austin for assistance. On returning they found the two prisoners dead, with their throats cut from ear to ear, the bowels protruding from many wounds made with knives, and a rope around each of their necks. An indignation meeting was held in Austin on Monday, at which resolutions condemning the act were passed. Committees were also appointed composed of whites and blacks to ferret out the murderers and have them brought to justice for the act.

HANOVER, N. H., July 17.—During a severe thunder shower at about 5 o'clock yesterday afternoon a whirlwind passed over the southeastern part of this village. Its course was from southwest to northeast, and its path of destruction was about one mile long and 200 rods wide. The L part of George Fileas' house, newly built, was torn from its foundation and wrecked. John Ramsey, a carpenter, who was at work on the inside, was buried in the debris. He was speedily dug out, budly bruised. A barn filled with hay and a shed owned by J. G. Currier was lifted from their foundation, carried about ten feet and dashed to splinters in the highway. A man and horse under the shed escaped uninjured. Chimneys were lifted off and carried fifteen or twenty feet away. The roof John Ogar's house was torn off. Trees all along the hurricane's course were torn up by the roots. Large branches of vigorous elms were twisted off and carried a long distance, and fences are scattered all over the fields they previously enclosed. A large elm, two and a half feet in diameter was stripped off six feet high, from which branches a foot in diameter were twisted off and carried away. Had the course of this cyclone been through a thickly populated portion of the village, the loss of life must have been considerable, and the loss of property, already large, greatly increased. Nothing approaching this in fury was ever known in this section.

At about the same time H. H. Marshall was knocked from a load of hay by lightning, and for a time was supposed to be dead. He has revived and will probably recover. His two assistants were badly shocked, and two horses attached to the wagon were instantly killed.

NEW YORK, July 16.—The fasting man gained rapidly in weight yesterday and the day before, which led the doubters to say that now he must be feeding very heavily. The fact was easily explained. Instead of depriving himself of water, save what he absorbed while rinsing his mouth and throat, Dr. Tanner had taken to drinking water quite freely. In fact he had drank so freely that his hands and feet were becoming œdematous, like a person with the dropsy, and some of the physicians thought he was drinking too much. In outward appearances the fasting man looked better than he had for the last four days. He was dressed all day in a ful. suit of black, and as he walked about briskly with his ebony cane he had all the appearances of a sprightly, active, tidy person. He took two carriage drives, one before 6 o'clock in the morning and the other between 5 and 7 last evening.

NEW YORK, July 19.—Dr. Tanner is still in good condition. He drank considerable water during the day, and took a drive in Riverside Park.

WASHINGTON, July 16.—The following card from one of the officers of the Third Corps shows how that organization has been misrepresented in its political views. The Democratic press of the East has been trying to make much capital among the old soldiers of the Army of the Potomac out of the assertion that the officers of the corps were almost unanimous for Hancock:

"On the 8th inst. the Third Army Corps held their annual reunion at Cape May, N. J. A Herald reporter was present, and that evening telegraphed to his paper as follows: 'Most of the officers fought under Hancock, and out of the seventy who sat down to supper, over fifty expressed themselves privately in favor of the Democratic candidate for President.' From the fact that all questions of politics are rigidly excluded from among us at our annual gathering, this statement naturally excited a good deal of indignation, especially as it was known to be very wide of the truth, and next day a canvass was quietly instituted, with the result of showing that there were just four of us, and no more, who would vote for Hancock. I have been trying ever since over my own signature to induce the Herald to correct this misstatement, but thus far without success.

"THOMAS RAFFERTY,
"Late Lieutenant Colonel 71st N. Y. Vol., Third Army Corps."

Gen. Wm. J. Sewell, of N. J., also corroborates the above statement.

PHILADELPHIA, July 16.—The fact has been circulated far and wide that Col. John W. Forney is writing a biography of General Hancock for campaign purposes. But not so much publicity has been given to the additional fact that he is to receive five thousand dollars for his work. This latter fact may explain the warmth of the Colonel's admiration of General Hancock. Alas! how are the mighty fallen.

OSGOOD, Ind., July 19.—James Jackson, a wealthy farmer of Ripley county, near Tanglewood, has committed suicide. He was 48 years of age, and leaves a wife and four children. He had been guilty of an outrageous assault on his daughter 22 years of age, and had sent her to Missouri to hide the evidences of his guilt. She returned a few days ago determined to expose him, and he took strychnine, which killed him.

ORANGE C. H., Va., July 15.—During a severe wind and rain storm near this place yesterday a large corn house of Major Scott's was blown down, and the dwelling of Charles Herring was set on fire by lightning. Mrs. Herring was paralyzed by the stroke.

PHILADELPHIA, July 16.—General Hartranft, Collector of Customs, entered the Custom House to-day and took formal possession of the establishment. He was introduced to the heads of departments, and subsequently the clerks waited on him and paid their respects.

POTTSVILLE, July 16.—The Margie Franklin colliery, owned and operated by the Enterprise coal company, at Excelsior, was destroyed by fire this morning. Loss, $25,000; insurance, $16,000. Three hundred men and boys are thus thrown out of employment. The origin of the fire is unknown.

Piles of 12 Years' Standing Cured.

GEORGIA, Vt., Sept. 16.

I am glad to say a word that will encourage any person that may be suffering as I did for twelve years from piles, to give Kidney-Wort a trial. After suffering, as none but those who have been thus afflicted can realize, and trying various remedies prescribed by regular physicians, I was persuaded to buy four packages of Kidney-Wort. This was about eighteen months ago; and after using only one and a-half packages I was cured. I have not since felt the need of more, but for fear I shall, I would not part with the balance of it on any account, if I supposed there would be any uncertainty of getting more.

The Adirondacks this year are sure to attract more visitors than ever before, and already the early tourists and travelers are sauntering about with the guides.

To Check Diarrhœa.

Diarrhœa is a complaint that the human family suffer more from at this time of year than from any other, and should be treated very carefully in order to restore the bowels to their proper strength. There is a wine made in New Jersey and sold by our druggists, called Speer's Port Grape Wine, which is being used very successfully in diarrhœa cases. In fact, it is conceded by chemists to contain just such properties as gradually check the fermenting in the bowels and add tone and vigor to the system, so as to withstand the miasmatic climate against these prevailing complaints. The wine is rich in body and is an excellent tonic, keeping the functions of the bowels in their proper condition. For sale by J. Zeller & Son. 2t

A judge of much experience says: 'I have never had a breach of promise case before me in which the mother of the girl did not know more about it than the girl. She always suspects the fellow is a rascal, and gets ready for him.'

Absurd question—A German lately applied for a situation as sailor on board a vessel lying in North river. 'Have you ever been to sea?' asked the captain. 'Does you suppose I comet over from Shermany in a balloon?'

An Editor in Luck.

St. Jacobs Oil cures rheumatism; of this I am convinced. For two years I suffered with rheumatism in my left shoulder and right arm, and last fall I was incapable of attending to my duties, and lay many a night unable to sleep on account of terrible pains. A few weeks ago a severe attack of this trouble struck me, and this time I concluded to try the St. Jacobs Oil, I must acknowlede, with but little confidence in its merits. I freely confess that the result has completely astonished me. The first application relieved the pain very materially, and the continued use of only two bottles has completely cured me of this chronic evil, and that, after the most eminent physicians and their prescriptions had been of no avail. I therefore consider it a duty to publish the above for the benefit of all sufferers with rheumatism and kindred complaints. G. A. HEILMAN,

A NNOUNCEMENT—LIFE OF Gen. James A. Garfield

The well known publishing house of Hubbard Bros., Philadelphia, have in preparation, a complete and authentic life of our lamented President, General James A. Garfield, written by his comrade in arms and personal friend, General J. S. Brisbin, of the regular army. The subject has rarely been equaled in points of romantic interest, and the more closely it is studied the more wonderful and inspiring it appears. The work will be published in the interest of the deep and permanent interest and value. We are glad that its preparation has been placed in such able hands, both as a soldier and an author, are well known, and his personal relations to General Garfield are such as will give unusual interest to his work. It will be a book of more than passing interest, and in this respect wide-awake canvassers will find a rich harvest. It will be sold only by subscription, and must meet with a very large sale.

THE BUILDING COMMITTEE OF ST. John's Church, Bellefonte, Pa., will RECEIVE BIDS until noon of Friday the 30th day of July, 1880, for the erection of a new church edifice, and the removal of their old church edifice, and the erection of a new Spring Street. Plans and specifications can be seen at the office of D. S. KELLER, to whom proposals are to be addressed. The right to reject any or all bids is reserved.

Bellefonte, April 14.

Bellefonte Republican.

BELLEFONTE, PA.

EX-REPRESENTATIVE LAWRENCE, of Ohio, who has declined the appointment of First Comptroller of the Currency, is said to have Congressional aspirations.

SINCE Judge Black denies having written Hancock's Louisiana proclamation, it might be well to inquire whether Andrew Johnson had any hand in its composition.

THE thermometer is inflicting a terrible amount of distress upon those who, if they did not know that the mercury was up in the nineties, would not suffer half as much as they do from the heat.

THE campaign mills at Washington will not begin to grind until the middle of August. Mr. McPherson is getting the Republican materials in readiness, while Gen. Duncan Walker is collecting ammunition for the Bourbons.

NOTWITHSTANDING the usual annual reports circulated last spring that the Delaware peach crop was winter-killed, it is pleasant to learn that the Peninsula will ship about 3,500,000 bushels this year again for peach-eaters to delight themselves withal.

THE New York Graphic, in view of the immense immigration from Europe, and the increasing prejudice against the Chinese on the Pacific coast, suggests that the formation of a new Native American party is among the political possibilities of the near future.

A HARRISBURG Republican. an old Union soldier who fought under Hancock, being asked if he was going to vote for his old commander, responded: "No; I cant see any reason why, if the Confederate Brigadiers have captured one good Union officer, that the whole Union army should surrender."

THOSE Democrats who are disposed to find fault with the failure to convict Mouat, should remember the result of the legal proceedings last winter against the light of Democracy, 'Squire McMullen. The chances of Philadelphia justice do not always favor defendants belonging to the predominant party.

THE Confederate brigadiers once tried to get possession of Pennsylvania by fighting Hancock. Having met with a somewhat ignominious failure, they are now trying to do it with his support. In hoping for success this time they forget to take it into consideration the men who fought in the rank and file on the same side as their presidential candidate.

THE following was uttered the other day by a well known citizen of Pittsburgh and a woolen manufacturer of national reputation, Samuel Bradley, a Democrat for fifty years: "I shall vote for Garfield. I know him, and have watched his course since entering public life. No better man could be selected for President at this time. The present financial policy of the government ought not to be tampered with when our country is in a prosperous condition, as it is now."

THE Philadelphia Inquirer makes a timely suggestion in regard to the Nicaraguan canal scheme. Now that Engineer Menocal and Admiral Ammen have things in such a highly satisfactory shape as far as Nicaraguan government is concerned, it is deemed advisable for them to let a little light on the composition of the company. As yet the public know nothing of the men who are to undertake this gigantic enterprise and push it to completion. The information will have to be given before the capitalists of the country will invest in the work.

AN ex-rebel soldier, belonging to South Carolina, has made application to the United States government for a pension on account of wounds received in the rebellion. He thinks Hancock is going to be elected, and he wants to be among the first to share in the profits. There will be thousands of such applications if the Democratic party comes into power, and what is more important to the voters of the North is the fact that the Southern members of Congress are quite willing to have the rebel soldiers placed on precisely the same footing with those who fought for the Union.

SCIENTISTS are engaged in discussing the cause of the frequent oil fires from lightning. One theory is that evaporation through a "vapor rod" in warm weather conducts the lightning; another suggestion is that the pipe lines, and not the tubes, are struck by lightning and carry the electricity back to the oil; and still another that the tanks themselves, with their pipe line connections, ought to be excellent conductors of electricity, and thus protect the oil from fire. A very important fact is stated, that no tank with an iron top has ever been struck by lightning. The one recently struck at Titusville had a wood and gravel top. This one fact, if it be a fact, is worth volumes of speculation.

WE have already discussed at length, the record which General Hancock made for himself while military commander of Louisiana and Texas in 1867-8. The Philadelphia Press concludes an able article on the same subject as follows: "Let the partisans of Hancock point to this chapter of his career as much they please—we welcome the issue. The more they press it the better. The country will never deliberately place at the helm of state the officer who was sent to Louisiana against Grant's protest; who was chosen to supercede the gallant Sheridan; who went as the tool of Andrew Johnson; who ostracized the loyalists and gave his hand to disloyalists; and who is to-day the candidate of the same Confederates who welcomed him as their deliverer then. Instead of lighting his pathway, Hancock's work at New Orleans clouds his whole career and closes any hope of success.

JUDGE BLACK has written a private letter from Paris to Col. McClure, which the latter plumps promptly into his Times. There is nothing particularly interesting in the epistle, if we except the "taffy" to the "philosopher" to whom it is addressed, and the following characteristic reference to Gen. Garfield:

"Your expressed determination to see that Gen. Garfield shall be defended against all unjust aspersions upon his personal character is equally pleasant reading to me, for I have been his devoted friend for many years, and I am resolved that I never will believe that he does not deserve the affection I have bestowed upon him. If he would carry the principles which regulate his private life into his public conduct he would make the best Chief Magistrate we have ever had. But he will act for the interests of his party, as he has acted all his lifetime, and that will require him to take the advice which Stephens gave to Montpelius in the buckshot war. I do not know any really good man who has done and assisted in doing so many bad things in politics as General Garfield."

How wonderfully is the politically bad combined with the personally good in Mr. Garfield! It is pleasant to know, however, that Jerry Black can say to this really good man: "With all thy faults, I love thee still."

A Nose Nearly Cut Off.

Wm. McAleer, a machine molder, with a friend, went to Reading in search of employment. They had been through several foundries and machine shops in that city and, becoming hungry, went in search of a baker shop. They struck Seventh street and walked to Latus' bakery, above Cherry street, and McAleer waited in front of Graeff's flour and feed store while his friend went into the bakery. Mr. Graeff was letting down an awning, when a ladder which was standing alongside of the awning was struck by the canvas and thrown against one of the large bulk windows of the feed store, breaking it to pieces. McAleer removed the ladder from the window and a piece of glass, which had rested on the top of the ladder, fell and struck him on the nose, almost severing it from his face. He was taken to the office of Dr. Weidman, who attended to his injuries.

An Ocean Newspaper.

There is now a daily newspaper printed on shipboard. It is called the Atlantic Daily, and J. H. Hartley, of Boston, began to publish it on the steamship Devonia, of the Anchor line, on May 29, off Sandy Hook. He had a case of type and a job press on board, and each day during the voyage he "set up" and printed his edition of 300 copies regardless of fogs, storms and icebergs. He says that he set up about 10,000 ems a day. Three steerage boys were employed, but struck when the passengers called them "devils." Burlesque telegrams from the Chicago convention were printed, and passengers expecting to be seasick were requested to "notify" the steward. Various jokes perpetrated by the passengers were printed, together with all the news—social, political, religious and nautical—of the voyage.

Two young men out riding passed a farm where a farmer was trying to harness a mule, and asked him if he would draw. 'Of course he will,' said the farmer, 'he draws the attention of every fool that passes.'

SUMMARY OF THE NEWS.

INDIANAPOLIS, July 13.—The jury in the case of Mrs. Brown, on trial for the murder of her husband, returned a verdict to-day of murder in the first degree, and sentenced her to death. Great excitement prevailed during the progress of the trial.

ALLANBURG, Ont., July 13.—Chas. Ware, aged 8 years, entered the school house yesterday through the window to get his books. On coming out the window sash fell down on him. He was found three hours afterward suspended from the window by the neck, dead.

CHARLESTON, July 13.—Col. Cash, the surviving principal in the recent fatal duel, was arrested this afternoon by the sheriff of Chesterfield county on a warrant from the coroner of Kershaw county, charging him with the killing of Colonel Shannon. Col. Cash has been awaiting arrest at his home since the duel, and expresses his readiness for trial. He will be tried in Darlington county, the scene of the duel.

CITY OF MEXICO, July 4.—Senor Mariscal, Minister of Justice, will be sent to Washington. Senor Torr, Minister to Hacienda, will retire, and be succeded by Senor Romero, a former minister of that department. The Minister of War has resigned, and Gen. Hinajose is to succeed him.

Election returns from the interior show that Gen. Gonzales is far ahead of all his competitors united, and is without doubt elected President. There is some apprehension on the part of persons not understanding the situation for revolution in case Gen. Gonzales is inaugurated. Better informed people believe that revolution is impossible, that every attempt will be crushed instantly. The result is considered a confirmation of the Tuxapec revolution, and a guarantee that there will be no departure whatever from President Diaz's policy.

GLEN HOUSE, N. H., July 13.—The first accident by which any passengers were ever injured on the carriage road from the Glen House to the summit of Mount Washington, occurred yesterday afternoon, about a mile below the half-way house. One of the six-horse mountain wagons containing a party of nine persons, the last load of the excursionists from Michigan to make the descent of the mountain, was tipped over and one lady killed and five others injured. Soon after starting from the summit the passengers discovered that the driver had been drinking while waiting for the party to descend. They left this wagon a short distance from the summit and walked to the half-way house, four miles below, where one one of the employes of the carriage road company assured them that there was no bad place below that, and that he thought it would be safe for them to resume their seats with the driver, who was with them. Soon after passing the half-way house in driving around a curve too rapidly the carriage was tipped over, throwing the occupants into the woods and on the rocks. Mrs. Ira Chichester, of Allegan, Mich., was instantly killed. Her husband, who was sitting by her side, was only slightly bruised. Of the other occupants, a Mr. Tomsley had his arm broken and received a slight cut on the head. Miss Jessie Bernard was slightly injured on the head. Miss Ella Mellen and Mrs. Ferguson, both of Michigan, were slightly injured.

The injured were brought at once to the Glen House, and are receiving every possible care and attention, there being three physicians in attendance. Lindsey, the driver, is probably fatally injured. He has been on the road for ten years, and was considered one of the safest drivers on the mountain.

WASHINGTON, July 14.—The President says Garfield's letter distinctly defines party lines, on the leading issues especially, concisely enunciating the Republican doctrine of national sovereignty as opposed to the disintegrating tendency of State rights as held by the Democratic party, and the rights of citizens to the enjoyment of political rights in every State, inaugurates the wise movement of the improvement of the avenues and inland commerce, and on the general subjects of the finance, Chinese immigration, education and civil service would address itself favorably to the support of the people. Secretary Schurz said it would give the Republicans decided vantage ground before the people. Postmaster General Key says it represents doctrines which everyone could support.

SIOUX CITY, Ia., July 14.—At Lemars, Sunday evening, Major C. S. C. Ball shot and seriously wounded Dr. W. B. Porter, the ball entering the neck just below the lobe of the right ear, and lodging in the bones at the opposite side. Both are very prominent citizens, and the affair caused great excitement. The trouble originated in Ball being the prosecuting attorney in a rape case, where Porter was the defendant. At the time of the shooting the men met on the street and words passed between them which no one was near enough to hear, when Ball fired, claiming that had he not got the drop on Porter he would have been shot himself. Porter says he was not armed and this is corroborated. It is now probable that he will recover.

COLUMBUS, July 13.—A startling tragedy occurred this afternoon a few minutes past twelve o'clock. At that hour Andrew Eichenburg entered the Capital City Bank and began conversation with S. S. Rickley the president and principal proprietor. Without a word of warning he drew a revolver and fired, the ball taking effect in Mr. Rickley's right temple, and he fell to the floor. Eichenberg then placed the placed the pistol to his own head, fired and fell dead. Rickley is not yet dead, but his wound is pronounced mortal. Eichenberg was formerly a dyer and renovator, but failed in business, and he has recently been engaged in street peddling. He was an Alsatian by birth, and has been in this country about fifteen years. Mr. Rickley is one of the oldest and best known business men in the city. The motive for the act cannot be rightly ascertained. A year ago twenty thousand dollars in bonds were stolen from the bank. They were special deposits, and it is said a portion of them belonged to Eichenberg. Subsequently Rickley made an assignment, and it is said that Eichenberg was a depositor and lost considerable money, and that being crazed by his losses and poverty he sought for revenge and death. As no one heard the conversation between the parties, it is difficult to decide which story is true.

BOSTON, July 14.—An evening paper vouches for the following: A seventeen-year-old daughter of one of Boston's wealthiest merchants, living at a suburban district, and who has only graduated from a grammar school this year, met an entire stranger while out riding recently, and in a short time returned home married. The fond parents, while intensely agitated about the matter, it is said, have determined to make the best of it and accept the victor. although he is socially far below them. A second youth, who is an intimate friend of the first, gave his attention to a wealthy young heiress worth in her own right about $100,000, captured her affections, ran away to New York and was married. Upon her disappearance her guardian at once followed the pair. but it was too late, and it is said the couple has gone to Europe to spend their honeymoon. The heiress is a well known suburban belle, and the surprise over the event has caused no inconsiderable comment in the highest social circles of the city.

BALTIMORE, July 14.—Yesterday morning Mrs. Caroline Hartman, wife of Edward Hartman, a German, was terribly injured by her husband, who threw a quantity of vitrol in her face. The woman, who is said to have been living on unfriendly terms with her husband, rose about daybreak, when Hartman seized her from behind and dashed the fluid in her face. She sprang from him shrieking with pain, when the man turned to a table and emptied the contents of a vial of vitrol into a a glass, which he held in his hands evidently with the intention of repeating the assault. A fourteen-year old son of the couple interfered in behalf of his mother, and while the father and son were struggling Mrs. Hartman made her escape into the street and ran into a neighbor's house. The woman will lose the sight of her left eye and be greatly disfigured. Mrs. Hartman alleges that her husband previously made attempts to throw vitrol on her, and that once she found a glass of it in the house, which she was on the point of drinking before she discovered what it was. Her husband was placed under arrest.

DENVER, July 15.—This evening Cherry creek, which is usually a very small stream rose five feet. The water came down with a rush, rising a foot in ten minutes. No damage was done in the city except the weakening of the bridge. It is said the track of the Colorado Central was washed away. The rise was probably caused by a waterspout in the mountains.

A special dispatch from Pueblo, dated Monday, says: There is a worse flood in the Fountain to-day than since 1863. The torrent of water came down with a rush, carrying everything before it. Thirty persons camping in the river bottom all escaped but one. The railroad twenty miles from this place is all washed out. The river rose eight feet in less than an hour, and the emigrants camped along its bottom lost nearly everything. The flood was caused by a cloud bursting.

Ten miles of the Denver and Rio Grande railway are washed away between Pueblo and Colorado Springs, and every bridge, culvert and cattle guard for a distance of 21 miles is damaged more or less. A large force is at work and the road will probably be in running order to-night. Bear creek, a mountain stream emptying into the Platte river, was also flooded by a terrific storm of hail stones, falling to the depth of two or three feet. No lives were lost and no damage is reported BRADFORD, July 15.—Late last night three 25,000 barrel iron tanks were struck by lightning, and all are burning fiercely. One tank is at Custer City, near Bradford, another is at Kansas Branch, and the other is at Lewis Run. It is thought the destruction to property will be very heavy. Should the tank at Custer overflow the burning oil would run through the creek into Bradford.

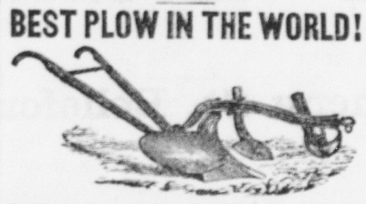
A NEW DEPARTURE!

BEST PLOW IN THE WORLD!



THE SYRACUSE CHILLED PLOW CO. of Syracuse, N. Y.

Are now putting on the market a Plow that is as much superior to any Plow heretofore made as the Plows of the past few years have been superior to those made half a century ago.

It combines all the excellencies of any Plow in use.

It obviates all the objections made to any other Plow.

In addition it embraces several new features of the greatest value, for which we have obtained exclusive Patents.

Its Beam, Clevis, Jointer Standard and Wheel Standard will be STEEL, and its mold board will be a composition of Steel and Iron chilled under a process for which we have also obtained an exclusive Patent. It will be called

THE SYRACUSE CHILLED STEEL PLOW

Its weight will be eighteen pounds less than our present styles.

A first-class Steel Plow, made in the ordinary way, full rigged, retails for twenty-two dollars. Inferior Steel Plows retail from sixteen to nineteen dollars.

The price of our new Plow will be but Seventeen Dollars, and it will be the cheapest Agricultural Implement ever sold.

Its mold board will outwear three of the very best kinds of the ordinary steel mold boards.

It will scour in soils where all steel plows and all other plows have hitherto proved a failure.

With this Plow will be introduced a corrugated Plow Point and Jointer Point, on which we have also obtained a Patent, and which is also a great improvement, both as regards strength and wear.

The Jointer can be shifted so as to take more or less land, and also more or less pitch, and it can always be kept on a line with the Plow.

The wheel will run under the beam or one side of it as desired, and always kept in line.

The beam is adjustable for Spring or Fall Plowing, and also for two or three horses.

The handles can be adjusted to accommodate a man or boy, on the same Plow.

It is a perfect Plow.

Wooden beams are going out of use because they shrink, swell and warp, and never run two seasons alike.

Iron beams are too heavy.

Malleable beams become demoralized and bend, which is much worse than to break.

A Steel beam is the necessity of the day. It is three times as strong and very much lighter than any other style.

When we say a Mold board is chilled, the farmers know it is so.

We do not palm off on them a composition of various metals and call it chilled metal.

We want agents for this new Plow in every town in this State.

We can give but a very small discount to them, but we will pay the Railroad Freight.

We propose to place this Plow in the hands of Farmers as near the cost of manufacture as possible.

It will be the best Agricultural Implement ever sold.

It shall also be the cheapest.

Persons therefore who are not willing to act as agents on the principle that "a nimble sixpence is better than a slow shilling," need not apply for an agency.

No Plows on commission. All sales absolute.

☞ This is the only Steel Chilled Plow in the World.

Steel costs several times more than Iron.

But this Plow, full rigged, by giving small discounts, can be sold for Seventeen Dollars. Compare this price with that of any Iron Plow ever made.

It is cheaper than any other Plow now made would be at five dollars and a half.

Where there are no agents we will, on receipt of Seventeen Dollars, send a Plow to any Railroad station in the State and pay the freight. Address,

KEYSTONE

Tire Tightener,

A new and useful invention, patented November 18, 1879, which obviates all the difficulties and expense heretofore connected in keeping your wagon, buggy, horse rake, and seed drill wheels in repair.

First. By using this machine you can tighten your wheels without the aid of a blacksmith, as it is simply a device to attach to the spokes to adjust the felloe back to the tire, where it originally belonged; then insert a leather washer on the tenon of the spoke between the spoke and the felloe, which keeps the felloe up tight against the tire.

Second. By this method you can tighten the tire without removing the wheel from the wagon, or the tire from the wheel.

Third. By using this machine you will not dish the wheel, burn and split the felloe, or overheat the tire, as is too often the case when done by the old method, as you have the wheel under perfect control to make it just as tight as you want it, not running the risk of more shrinkage than was allowed, and thus ruin the wheel.

Fourth. With this machine you can remove a broken spoke and spring in a new one without injury to the wheel.

Fifth. A wheel tightened by this method will last twice as long as one tightened by the old method.

Sixth. You can save half the price of the machine on one job alone, allowing nothing for the time and trouble of taking the wagon to the shop.

QUESTIONS

Occasionally asked by persons not fully understanding the merits of the machine:

Question. Does this machine work hard?
Answer. No; a boy from twelve to fifteen years of age can work it as readily as a grown person.
Question. How does this method of tightening tires affect the hub of the wheel?
Answer. It tightens the spokes in the hub, as the machine is fastened to the hub and has the same downward pressure as it has to raise, thus should a spoke be loose in the hub it forces it back to its place and tightens it.
Question. If the wheel be felloe-bound, how do you tighten it without sawing a piece out of the felloe, as it is done by the old method?
Answer. Simply by adjusting the felloe back to its original place, then put the washer under it and keep it there.
Question. Will not a wheel tightened by this method soon give way and become loose?
Answer. No; as it is evident that wood upon wood will not last as long as wood on leather, by placing a leather washer on the tenon of the spoke, it avoids friction and bruising of the wood, thus proving all for the machine that we claim for it.

A Commendable Move.

An exchange says: Recently measures have been consummated by the management of the Pennsylvania Railroad Company looking to the comfort of the trainmen employed by the corporation, and now General Manager Thomson has given the necessary directions to at once commence the construction of buildings for their especial use. These buildings are to be located at points where crews lie over or trains made up, and where there is always a large number of trainmen either off duty or awaiting orders. They are to be fitted up with reading rooms, brilliantly lighted, bath rooms with hot and cold water, dormitories, closets, etc. It is the intention to make them as attractive as possible, the reading rooms to be kept supplied with daily papers and periodicals. Buildings of this character will be erected at Altoona, Philadelphia, Jersey City, Columbia, Harrisburg and Pittsburgh during the summer, and probably at other peints if the experiment is found to work well.

A Fatal Jump.

A Harrisburg man jumped into a culvert from a shifter on Saturday last and was killed, in regard to which a paper of that city says: On Saturday afternoon George Batcheller, an employe at the Lochiel iron works, got on a shifter to ride down to Mr. Irwin's, at Lochiel, where he boarded. He was accompanied by another employe of the works, and when opposite the boarding house Bacheller's companion jumped off at one side, and was followed directly afterwards by Bachellor, who jumped from the other side. As the latter did so he fell into a culvert, and striking on his face received internal injuries. He was picked up and taken to the hospital, and although every effort was made to save his life, they did not avail, the injured man dying at five o'clock last evening. The remains were taken to Mr. Irwin's last evening. Bachellor was a native of Wales, and has been in this country but a few weeks. He left a wife and child in Wales.

Alumni Meeting.

The alumni and students of Pennsylvania College, resident in Central Pennsylvania, will hold their annual reunion in Bellefonte on Wednesday, July 28th. Clement Dale, '64, Adam Hoy, '56, W. E. Fisher, '72, J. Alfred Koser, '72, John A. Himes, '70, are the committee in charge, and from their knowledge in managing such affairs we have no doubt the reunion will prove a gratifying success. The following programme has been arranged for the occasion:

10½ a. m: Business session.
2 p. m.: Social and business session.
3 p. m.: Discussion of the subject: "Do the Literary and Oratorical Trainings of College bear a superior Relation to the Curriculum;" to be opened by Rev. J. M. Reimensnyder, Class of '70, and J. A. Beeber, Esq., Class of '66, alternate.
8 p. m.: Oration. "The Church and College," by Professor Edmund J. Wolf. D. D., Class of '61, alternate.
10 p. m.: Banquet.

Hack Upset.

A two-horse hack, belonging to P. B. Corman, and driven by Abram Baum, was upset Wednesday afternoon on Race street weile enroute to the circus at the Fair grounds, with about twenty passengers on board In crossing the siding of the Snow Shoe railroad one of the forward wheels caught in the track and was wrenched off, which was cause of the accident. The occupants of the wagon were thrown out in all directions, alighting on their heads and backs, but fortunately no one was injured seriously. Mr. John W. Getz, of Lemont, was thrown against the hub of a wheel, and has a slightly sprained back and a new suit of clothes frescoed with wheel grease to show for it. Another man, whose name we did not learn, had a finger injured and his coat ripped from collar to tail.

Port Matilda.

No more hard times. Eighty-seven persons bought tickets to Coup's show in Tyrone yesterday, besides several wagon loads of people who did not buy tickets, that went to see the "sea devil."

We were somewhat amused to hear a lady tell her gallant at the picnic peanut stand, when asked what she would have, say she would take "gum drops—something soft, like he was." NIB.

—"Deuce" Goshen, editor of the Mifflin Owl, has come to grief at the hands of some Bellefonte victims. Officer Dolan, of Bellefonte, arrested Goshen on Tuesday a week on three charges, and placed him under $900 bail. The persons who are selling or circulating this paper here may not know it, but it is nevertheless law that they are all liable to prosecution the same as the author and publisher of any article reflecting on the character of persons or calculated to bring them into public notoriety, even though their names are not given.—Lewistown Gazette.

Three Runs.

A correspondent from Three Runs, Clearfield county, writes as follows of that busy little village:

As there is not much said about our busy little village, as I might call it, I thought I would make a few remarks concerning it. Three Runs is located in the northeast corner of Clearfield county, two miles west of the west branch of the Susquehanna river, or two and one-half miles northwest of Buttermilk Falls. It contains one store, postoffice, gristmill, sawmill, blacksmith shop, school house and three dwelling houses. The leading merchants are under the firm name of Gilliland & Brothers, who are very straight-going and upright gentlemen and well liked by their employees.

Our blacksmith, Mr. James H. Hunter, is a first-class workman, and is sober and industrious. The lumbermen say they will put Mr. Hunter's make of "cant hooks" up against any in the market.

The grist mill, in charge of Reuben M. Kaup, is turning out No. 1 flour, which gives entire satisfaction to his customers. Mr. Kaup was formerly of Centre county, having learned his trade with his father, William Kaup, recently of Humes' mill.

The grain crops in this vicinity are looking well, owing the rains we have had. The corn seems to have got beyond the control of the farmers in regard to the working of it.

I would also state, although in the wilds of Clearfield, we have preaching almost every Sunday, and a Union Sabbath-school, which has an average attendance of forty scholars.

SUBSCRIBER.

—An ice cream festival will be held in Shiloh church, this side of Lemont, on Friday and Saturday evenings, July 23d and 24th. Two bands of music have been invited to be present, and the affair will embrace several other pleasing features. The proceeds of the festival are to be devoted to the benefit of the church, and it is hoped that there will be a large attendance. All are cordially invited.

A Fish in his Head.

The Reading Eagle gives an account of the sufferings which a lad of that city named George Whitman has endured for several days. Three weeks ago he was swimming in the Schuylkill with several of his schoolmates, and while diving he experienced a tickling sensation in one of his ears. Directly after he had a little pain, but it was only momentary and soon passed away. He probed for the object with a sharp piece of wood, but could find nothing. He dressed and went home, and no more attention was paid to the matter. Some time after he had a terrible headache, and from that time up to within a few days ago he experienced nothing but unceasing pain. All kinds of remedies were tried until a day or so ago when his mother wound a handkerchief about a pin and probed in his ear. She saw something protrude. She reached for it, got a firm hold and pulled out a white looking object, over two inches long, which proved to be a fish, one of the species used by many of the disciples of Izaak Walton for bait. Immediate relief was experienced. The boy felt as though a weight of fifty pounds had been removed from his head, and immediately began to get better. The fish is of a white color, and was pulled from the boy's ear tail first.

The murderer, George Smith, under sentence of death in the jail at Williamsport, complains of losing health; he eats but little and is losing flesh rapidly.

The gas went out in Harrisburg on Sunday night, and caused a great deal of inconvenience, especially in the newspaper offices. Total darkness lasted about an hour.

At a picnic at Hecksherville, Log Delaney, alais Grevey, shot Thomas Mow, inside boss at Thomaston Colliery, in the shoulder. There was no provocation for the deed.

Thorgh Mrs. Wolfgang Hoffman of Somerset county, was found dead in her cellar, hanged by the neck, suspicious people think her husband killed her for her money.

The workmen employed at the sheet mill of the Reading Iron Works have struck against a proposed reduction of ten per cent. About two hundred and fifty men stopped work yesterday.

John G. Geissler, one of Reading's most respected citizens, died on Saturday in the 78th year of his age. His disease was enlargement of the liver, from which he suffered for three weeks past.

Twenty-eight inches outcrop of block coal has been developed near Edenburg, Lawrence County, Pa., on the farm of Morris Brown. This is said to open up a block coal territory where formerly none was believed to exist.

A little boy named Lloyd Lester was terribly scalded at the residence of his parents, No. 192 Robinson street, Allegheny. His sister was carrying a bucket of scalding water up stairs when the little boy fell against it and upset the contents on himself. He is so badly scalded that his life is despaired of.

TRAIN WRECKED.

A Freight Train on the B. E. V. R. R. Broken Up at Milesburg.

The most disastrous wreck that has taken place on the Bald Eagle Valley Railroad for several years occurred at Milesburg, two miles below this place about one o'clock on Saturday morning.

The special train from Tyrone to Lock Haven, consisting of forty cars, ran into a coal car just below the Milesburg depot, throwing the engine and train from the track. The car which was run into, causing the mishap, had been left on a siding the evening before; but during the night the brake was in some manner thrown off, possibly by boys, and as the track was slightly descending, the car moved down to the main track, stopping in such a position as to prevent the passage of trains without coming in contact with it. At the time of the smashup the train was going at the rate of about 20 miles per hour, and the force of the shock was terrific.

The cars were piled up in heaps along the road for a quarter of a mile, parts of some of them being thrown a distance of twenty-five feet from the track. Of the forty cars of the train twenty-three were demolished, a number of them being broken into kindling wood. The engine landed in a field about 15 feet from the road, and with the exception of the running gear was not much damaged. It seems somewhat remarkable that such a disastrous accident could occur without resulting in loss of life or serious injury to the trainmen, yet, we are pleased to state that such was the case. The engineer, when he saw what was before him, whistled down brakes and jumped, but the fireman, Samuel Dawson, of this place, thinking no doubt that he was as safe on as off the engine, clung to his post to the last. Two brakemen, whose names we did not learn, were the only ones injured, and their injuries were but slight.

Early in the morning a wrecking train from Tyrone with a large force of workmen arrived on the scene of the catastrophe, and by four o'clock in the afternoon the wreck was sufficiently cleared to allow trains to pass, although it will require several days to remove the broken cars, trucks, etc., and put the track in proper condition.

Good Market.

The market on Saturday was the largest and best we have had thus far this season. There were twenty-nine wagons in, and a good variety of produce offered for sale. As is usually the case when there is a good market, but few buyers were on hand, and a number of farmers were obliged to return home with a share of their goods or dispose of them at slim prices. The supply of butter and eggs was large, the former bringing 20 cents for good and 18 cents for inferior lots. Beef and veal were offered in large quantities. One or two farmers brought in a few dozen chickens, and could have easily disposed of as many more. Of vegetables there was a good display, both in quality and variety. Early apples, for eating and cooking, were plenty, and brought about 15 cents a peck for the best. It would greatly encourage the farmers if our citizens would patronize the market more extensively.

—Another fraud is on the road of an improved pattern. A well-dressed man is going about the country claiming to be deeply interested in the cause of temperance. He calls at a farm house, presents a pledge for the farmer to sign, and when this is done produces a card, similar in appearance, to which he also desires the signature to be affixed, "in order to keep a correct memorandum of his work.' The second card is a sight note for any amount the swindler may see fit to demand. Look out for him!

—When Billy Thomas, the ticket agent at the depot, has occasion to sneeze the men about the depot close the windows and go down cellar, where they remain until the shock is over. The employes say that when Billy shoots his smeller off the report is likened unto an old horse pistol, and tumbles the freight around promiscuously.

—The observatory on Nittany mountain is not very extensively patronized this season, which is not strange. Visitors to the mountain can obtain almost as good a view of the valley standing on the ground as from the observatory, and it doesn't cost anything.

—Go to Sechler's for fresh canned fruits and meats.

A Fearful Plunge.

A naval cadet named Wm. D. Darrah, of the United States Naval Academy, who was stopping at the Bolton House, at Harrisburg, on Friday, walked out of a fourth-story window in his sleep, falling a distance of over thirty feet. His left wrist was broken and his left side considerably bruised. The frightful fall sustained by Darrah, says the Telegraph, may be understood when the surroundings are explained. Beneath the back window of his room, in the area, is a door leading to the cellar. This was open. The cellar steps are of inch yellow pine covered with corrugated iron plates one-eighth of an inch in thickness. The distance from the centre of the steps to Darrah's room is thirty-five feet. He was walking in his sleep and fell from the window through the cellar door, striking directly in the centre of the steps, crashing through three of them and snapping them off as if they had been so many laths, the iron and wood both being broken. As he fell he must have turned in the air and struck on his left side. Had he swerved a foot he would have struck the heavy timbers at the sides of the cellar door and been instantly killed. It was a most miraculous escape. Young Darrah, with the rest of the cadets, left for Philadelphia this morning, where they will visit the Baldwin locomotive works before they pursue their investigation in different parts of the country.

—The Williamsport Sun gives the following particulars of Peter Herdic's latest invention: Peter Herdic, of this place, has invented a new style of passenger coach, capable of seating eight persons and to be drawn by one horse. The principal points about this coach, giving it superiority over any other, is in the fact of it having very large wheels, thus passing more easily over the rough pavements and allowing one horse to draw about as much as two with smaller wheels. The axles are in a single piece of casting, with a drop of eighteen inches from the spindles, allowing the coach to set near the ground. There are other points of excellence which commend themselves at once. Mr. Herdic has organized a company, with a capital of $1,000,000 at Philadelphia, where they intend to manufacture the coaches on a large scale, and expect to supply every city in the United States.

—The Bellefonte Logan Hose Company numbers seventy members, when they are all at home and sober. Thirty-two of them "cavorted" our streets on Tuesday, and—well, it must be perfectly "awful" when the whole seventy get on a stampede in Bellefonte.—[Tyrone Herald. The Herald's sarcastic allusion to the Logans' visit to that place on the 6th is probably occasioned by the slight difficulty which they became involved in with the Tyrone company, in which, according to all accounts, several members of the latter company made consummate asses of themselves, and the least the Herald says about the matter the better it will be for them.

—A Kansas correspondent of the Centre Reporter writes that during a recent hail storm out there hail stones fell weighing two pounds and a half. We would not intimate for the world that this correspondent would be guilty of stretching the truth, but we nevertheless must hold to our first opinion in regard to those chunks of ice—that they accidentally fell out of an ice wagon.

—From the Watchman we learn that Mr. Thomas Ryan, of Howard borough, was found dead in his bed on Friday morning, July 9th, by his wife, who went to call him to breakfast. He was about 65 years of age, and is supposed to have been the victim of heart disease. His remains were interred in the Catholic burying ground in this place on the Sunday following.

—A black bear, weighing 350 pounds dressed, was killed in Mifflin county on Monday. What an erection of hair there would be if one of these beasts should call at the camp of the "Bellefonte Rangers" some evening! We imagine bruin would be allowed to help himself to the best in the shop unmolested.

—A party of fifteen young people from town, including a number of strangers, visited Point McCoy on Saturday. They found the trip a tedious one, but considered themselves well repaid by the delightful view from the summit.

—Why will you go about the streets with your last year's overalls on when you can buy a new stylish suit for little or nothing at the Philadelphia branch. All goods well made, and guaranteed to give satisfaction.

—According to the Centre Reporter the grain crop in Pennsvalley, which is about all harvested and stored, is not up to the average, having been considerably damaged by the fly, frost and spring drouth.

Off to the Mountains.

The "Mountain Rangers; or, the Bloody Trappers of the Moshannon," a party composed of eight or ten fearless young men of this place, left here Friday for their annual pleasure trip to the mountains. They have pitched their tents on Salt Lick Run, and if the weather holds good, will brave the mighty perils of the forest for about a week. They took with them a small carload of baggage, made up of provisions, tents, guns and ammunition, fishing tackle, etc., and will spend their time in fishing, target practice, and in the observance of various other features of camp life. With Irv. Hagerman to relate "anecdotes" and John Mason Duncan to entertain them with orations, readings, poems, etc., we doubt if the boys will spend a dull evening during their absence, unless some venturesome ranger should succumb to the embrace of a grizzly, or lose himself in some winding mountain pass, and perish for the want of some cold victuals. But we sincerely hope that no such sad event will occur, and that the rangers will all report right side up at the end of their week's campaign.

An Amusing Scene.

The wreck at Milesburg on Saturday, which prevented the passing of trains, made it necessary to transfer passengers and baggage from one train to another until the wreck was cleared. On one train there happened to be a large quantity of bottled beer, which was taken charge of by the trainmen and carried over to the other train. Francis Murphy, the temperance orator, who was a passenger, stepped off his car just in front of the men who were carrying the beer, and walked over to the other train, seemingly in charge of the delegation. There were a great many people standing around viewing the wreck, among whom were several who recognized Murphy and appreciated the scene. The spectacle of the great champion of temperance heading a procession of men armed with beer bottles was ludicrous in the extreme and caused many a face to be wreathed in smiles. A crowd of small boys began to shout and hoot and pass unpleasant remarks, but the distinguished gentleman did not deign to notice them, or even look around, and quietly took his seat in the car.

Of Interest to Odd Fellows.

At the recent session of the Independent Order of Odd Fellows, at Reading, the constitution and rules of the order were entirely revised. The changes made are a provision that neither the constitution of the grand lodge nor that of the subordinate lodges can, under the adopted laws, be amended and altered every ten years. It was also decided that subordinate lodges shall not pay sick benefits in amount to exceed $3.50 a week where but ten cents a week dues are paid; $3.75 where eleven cents are paid; $4 where but twelve cents are paid; $4.50 where but thirteen cents are paid, and fifty cents per week additional for dues paid per week into the treasury of the lodge. These laws, by action of the grand lodge, went into effect July 1st.

The Arrest of English.

The Elk county Gazette gives the following particulars in regard to the tracking and final arrest of English, the outlaw, by Detective Thomas:

"On the 10th day of May J. R. Thomas, a detective of the Pinkerton agency, having been employed to work up the case, arrived at Caledonia, the scene of the murder, and set himself about the difficult task of tracking up English. He had but little trouble in discovering that English was still in the vicinity of Caledonia. He, however, left his retreat in the woods shortly after the arrival of the detective, who immediately tracked him to Freeport, a point on the Allegheny river, thirty miles above Pittsburgh. From Freeport he was tracked to Canada, the immediate locality we are not advised. From this point he went to Chase, a town in the central portion of Michigan, where he worked for some time. From Chase he was traced to Cheboygan, Michigan, a little town in the extreme northern part of the State, which is situated on the banks of the Mackinaw Strait. At this point all trace of English was lost for three or four weeks, but on the 10th of July a dispatch was received from Detective Thomas that he had his man and asked for a requisition to enable him to bring him back to Pennsylvania. On Monday District Attorney Wurzell started for Harrisburg to secure a requisition from Gov. Hoyt on Gov. Cresswell of Michigan. The requisition was secured on Tuesday and forwarded to Michigan, and in a few days we may expect English to be safely lodged in the Ridgway jail.

HOW HE WAS CAPTURED.

Detective Thomas, disguised as a laboring man, traced the fugitive to one of Andrew Kaul's lumbering camps, in the northern part of Michigan, and worked with him a week, at the end of which time he enticed him into a saloon to take a "social glass," when, at an unguarded moment he covered him with his revolver and demanded his surrender. English, realizing that he was confronted by a man as cool and courageous as himself, yielded gracefully, and was at once properly secured.

Fingers Torn Off.

Another painful accident occurred at Duncan's foundry on Saturday afternoon, although not as severe as the one recorded several days since. Barney Powers, son of Mr. Reddy Powers, of this place, an apprentice, caught his left hand in a set of cog wheels, and before he could extricate it the little finger and the one next to it were torn off, and the third or middle finger badly mutilated. He was removed to his home and a physician summoned to dress his wounds. Such accidents as these, whereby one is deprived of useful members of the body, are particularly unfortunate, and young men learning the machinist's trade should be very careful to guard against them.

—The wheat crop which has been harvested on Long Island is a fair average one, despite the drouth and the army worms. Early potatoes will probably fall below the average, the drouth having seriously affected them in many fields. Late potatoes promise well, and will make a good crop. Oats are short in stock, but will yield well. Corn is doing well, and will make a long growth of stalks and a good yield of grain.

The crop of family groceries at Sechler & Co.'s is as large and full as usual, not having been affected in the least by the drouth. Their spices are pure and fresh; preserved meats and fruits ditto; a full line of coffees and teas, the very best in the market; unadulterated sugars and molasses, etc. It makes no difference if the crops are short, you can always find a tremendous stock of goods, as pure as the purest, at Sechler & Co.'s.

—The Indians belonging to Coup's show all smoked Harry Green's cigars while in town, which speaks well for their quality, as Indians are good judges of the weed.

—The Tyrone Herald has risen from the ruins of the fire, and comes once more to the front. It is reduced in size, but presents a creditable appearance, nevertheless.

—Everybody ought to be happy. The chestnut and squirrel crop is going to be large, and there is a fair prospect that Tanner will develop into a first-class idiot.

—A seven-year-old son of Mr. Samuel Rine, of this place, fell from a shed at the rear of his house Friday and cut two severe gashes in the back of his head.

—Gents' furnishing goods in great variety at Samuel Lewins' Philadelphia branch. Everything from a suit of clothes down to a necktie.

—Delays are dangerous in diseases of the kidneys. Day's Kidney Pad is the sure cure.

In Memoriam.

At a meeting of the session of the Moshannon and Snow Shoe Presbyterian Church it was resolved to prepare a minute expressive of our sad bereavement and great loss in the death of Mr. John S. Sommerville, of Snow Shoe, Pa., who departed this life on the 23d of June, 1880; therefore,

Resolved, That in the death of Mr. Sommerville our church has lost her best friend and chief earthly support, yet in submission to God we would say, "Thy will be done."

Resolved, That we offer this tribute to the memory of a man for almost twelve years an elder in the church, a man of great usefulness and liberality in everything that was for the good of the church and the community.

Resolved, That in his death the cause of temperance and the observance of the Sabbath have lost a staunch friend and advocate.

Resolved, That the poor and suffering have lost a true and benificent friend.

Resolved, That we hereby express our deep sympathy for the widow and relatives; that these resolutions be entered on the minutes of the church, and that they be published in the county papers.

By order of session:

W. O. WRIGHT, Moderator.
William Askey, J. H. Holt and F. D. Weaver, Elders.

Notice.

All persons interested in the Lycoming Fire Insurance Company are requested to be present at a meeting in the Court House on Friday next, the 23d inst. The committee appointed at a former meeting to go to Muncy for the purpose of investigating the way and manner of doing business and keeping accounts of said company, will make their report at this meeting. All should attend who have anything at stake, as the report will be of interest to all.

MANY CITIZENS.

—Republicans and others who want to see Garfield and Arthur elected in November next are requested to meet in room on second floor (east end) of Bush's Arcade, on Friday evening, July 23d. Let there be a large attendance. Everybody turn out.

—Farmers over in the valley complain that they will not have enough hay to last them half way through the winter. They will either have to reduce their stock or buy elsewhere.

—Mr. W. R. Teller, of the Brockerhoff House, we are informed, is confined to his room by serious illness. We hope his sickness will be of short duration.

—Mr. James Peters, the agreeable "mixologist" of the Bush House, is a "hail fellow well met," and is winning hosts of friends by his uniform courtesy to all.

—The finest looking peaches we have seen this season grew on Mr. Isaac Haupt's farm on the mountain. They are plump and juicy, and of fine flavor.

—Republican campaign clubs will be formed in Bellefonte, Loveville, Valentine's Forges and other places during this week.

—Notwithstanding it is three months yet before election, political meetings are being held in various parts of the county. All hands had better take a rest.

—Bellefonte was selected as the place for holding the next reunion of the Pennsylvania Reserves at the meeting in Harrisburg on Thursday.

Color Your Butter.

Farmers that try to sell white butter are all of the opinion that dairying does not pay. If they would use Wells, Richardson's & Co.'s Perfected Butter Color, and market their butter in perfect condition, they would still get good prices, but it will not pay to make any but the best in color and quality. This color is used by all the leading creameries and dairymen, and is sold by druggists and merchants.
